A PAWNBROKER HELD UP.

FORGOTSION SAYS THREE MEN TOOK HIS $700 WATCH.

It Was in His Bowery Shop Just as Ho Had Closed Up on Monday Night-A Pretended Customer Led the Thieyes-The Case Not Reported to the Police. Morris A. Forgotston, a pawnbroker at 178 Bowery, who came pretty near being a victim of burglars three weeks ago, announced yeserday that he had been held up and robbed of s $700 watch in a manner somewhat sensational. He didn't report it to the police, and when THE BUN reporter called on him he said he couldn't imagine how the story had got out.
"Since it is out, Mr. Forgotston," suggested the reporter, "the truth ought to be told."

"Yes, yes," said Mr. Forgotston. "There wasn't any robbery. There wasn't anything. I just lost a watch, that's all." "How did you come to lose it?" asked the re-

'I was just closing up last night," said Mr. Forgotston. "You see, I have a burglar alarm in my safe. I got that on right away after the burglars tried to get in. That had struck 12 some time before I had begun to close up. I had just taken off my diamonds." Mr. Forgotston stopped to display them. There were two rings and a shirt button of the size known as headlight. "I had put the rings in the safe," he resumed, "and I was just ununscrewing the stud when I heard a rattle at the door. I often hear such things at night, and I went there. There was a tall, fine-looking man outside. I opened the door, and he said he was a stranger in the city, and had a gold watch which he wanted to sell. I let him in and locked the door. He showed me the watch. It was a handsome one, worth $35 or $40. I asked him how much he wanted for it and said he'd take $35. I told him I wouldn't pay that, and we stood talking He kept telling me of the value of about it. He kept telling me of the value of the watch and how it was a present, and he didn't want to part with it, but I didn't take in the story. I told him I wouldn't give him $35 for it, and I opened the door to let him out. As he started to step out two other men, I don't know which direction they came from, rushed in and began taking to him about the watch. In an instant they all got hold of me. One of them got me by the neck and the three ran me back against the counter—that little counter there."

Mr. Forgotston pointed to a small counter which stands directly in front of the safe. There which stands directly in front of the safe. There was a little showcase on it. The glass in the back of the case was broken.

"They all three ran me back against that little counter, slam bang," he went on. "The counter tipped over, smash; I fell on it, and one of the men fell on me. Well, that's all there is about it. They were gone. It took not over five seconds for the whole thing."

"Well, about the watch?" asked the reporter.
"I don't know," said Mr. Forgotston, "whether they got it over at the door or when the counter fell over. But they got it. Here's sail I got left."

"whether they got it over at the door or when the counter (ell over. But they got it. Here's all I got left."

He held up a bit of chain.
"The chain was only worth twenty cents," he said, "but the watch was worth $600 or $700."
"Did you yell?"
"No. I didn't have time to yell. One of the men had a stocking or a canvas-like bag, you know, and he made a blow at me, but he didn't hit me. I thought I was dead, though, and when I got up and found they were gone I said. 'Oh what's the use; they only got the watch.'"
"What did you do?"
"I closed up the place."
"I don't know whether the police got a report or not. I've got a man after my watch, and he says it can't be pawned anywhere in this city but he'll get it. My watch—that's all I want. I'd give $50 to get that back. It was a Henry Locle watch. The case was 18-carat gold and weighed 50 penny weights. The movement had 32 rubles in it and was number 107.33. The watch had an enamelled dial and was a minute repeater. I got it of a racing man in Boston, and I'd like to get it back."

Around at the Mulberry street police station the police said they had read of the robbery in the evening papers. The Sergeant on duty sniffed twice and stuck up his nose before delivering himself thus:

"I'd like to see him lose a $700 watch like that and not squeal."

The Widow Meets with Some Obstacles in Settling Up the Little Estate. Complications have arisen in the settlement of the $5,000 estate left by the late ex-Assemblyman Charles J. Kurth of Brooklyn, and Jessie F. Kurth, the widow, is worried over the matter. Mrs. Kurth offered for probate a will made in October, 1895, in which the testator left $1,000 to his mother and the rest of the estate to his wife. In her husband's papers hirs. satate to his wife. In her husband's papers Mrs. Kurth found a document purporting to be a supplement to a will made on Jan. 14, 1896, leaving $5.00 to Anna Fasanecht and $1,000 to Laura V. Depew. This document has also been filed with the Surrogate, but the will to which it refers is missing. Mrs. Kurth avers that her husband was incapable of making a will in January, 1896, and she also alleges undue influence. Mr. Kurth was at one time a rising young Hepublican politician, and had long been a protégé of John Y. McKane.

BOGUS PRIESTS IN BROOKLYN. They Have Been Collecting Money in Father Hickey's Name.

Two swindlers have been going around St. Francis Xavier's parish in Brooklyn, collecting money from servant girls and others in the name of the Rev. Father Hickey, the name of the Rev. Father Hickey, the rector. They were clerical garb, and represented themselves as Father Hickey's assistants. One of them said the money was required to aid him to return to his aged parents in Ireland, and the other said his contributions were for a new religious magazine which Father Hickey had started. Several hundred dollars have been collected in this way. When he learned of the fraud yesterday Father Hickey called at the Hergen street police station and asked Capt. Campbell to look out for the swindlers.

Butt by Heury Clows & Co. Dismissed. CHICAGO, Nov. 10 .- Judge Grosscup yesterday dismissed the case brought by Henry Clews Co. against William T. Baker. The claim was made in the bill that Mr. Baker obtained one hundred shares of stock in the First Na-tional Bank of Chicago, at the time of its reor-ganization, to which Clews & Co. were entitled. Mr. Baker filed an answer which denied the charges. The time for taking testimony had expired and the complainants had taken no testimony.

SAYS HIS WIFE IS BELD PRISONER.

Tuscalde Gets a Writ Against Her Father -His Story Contradicted,

Justice Lawrence of the Supreme Court granted a writ of habeas corpus yesterday di-recting G. Gallani of 76 Catherine street, to produce his daughter Emilia in court this morning. The writ was granted upon the application of Joseph Tuscaldo, who alleged through his counsel, William E. Cook, that the girl is his wife. He said that he fell in love with Emilia when they were both living in taly. He wanted to marry the girl then, but her father, who was opposed to the match, brought her to this country, and the went to live in Catherine street. Young Tuscaldo followed them here and had several clandestine meetings with the girl. One day about a month ago they were married in the City Hall. Gallant knew nothing about the marriage, but when he found out that his daughter was meeting her old lover he locked her up, Tuscaldo says, in a room of his house. When Tuscaldo tried to see his wife the old man drove him away with threats, so Tuscaldo applied for help to the court. Lawyer Cook said that when he demanded the release of the girl, Galiani sent back the following reply: "You may have her heart but never her

"You may have her heart but never her body."
In his petition Tuscaido alleged that Emilia is a prisoner in a room that had little or noventilation, and that her meals are served to her through a wicket in the door. The father, he said, keeps the room guarded day and night. Tony Gallani, who is a brother of Emilia, and who keeps a barber shap on the ground floor of 76 Catherine street, said last night that there was no truth in the story that his sister had been restrained of her liberty. He said that his father had decided that Tuscaido was not a suitable husband for his daughter. He told Emilia of his decision and the girl seemed satisfied to give up Tuscaido. Afterward, Tony said, Tuscaido called and got back the watch and ring which he had presented to Emilia. Her brother never heard that they were married.

ALDERMEN PRESUMABLY SQUARE. Court Won't Enjoin Them in Advance in the Fuel Gas Case. A motion was made before Justice Smyth of the Supreme Court yesterday to make permanent the temporary injunction granted at the request of Henry M. Wilcox, a taxpayer, enjoining the Board of Aldermen from granting a franchise to the Consumers' Fuel, Gas, Heat, and Power Company to lay pipes throughout the city. Mr. Wilcox says that the Metropolitan the city. Mr. Wilcox says that the Metropolitan and New York gas companies would do better by the city. The Aldermen sent the application of the Consumers' company to the Committee on Lamps and Gas, which reported in favor of granting-the franchise. It was said that the Board will probably confirm this report.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Turner said that the court could not infer what action the Board would take in the matter, and that the application was premature. He caused the Judge te smite by saving:

"One company has offered to pay the city $100,000 in gold coin of the present weight and fineness for the franchise."

"There is no evidence that the Board will accept the report of the committee," said the judge. "I am bound to assume that the Board will accept the report of the matter. As it is not now before the Board I don't see that I should enjoin that body."

The Judge said further that it seemed to him that the application should be made after the Board had acted. If they act illegally, to restrain the carrying out of the resolution of the Board. He reserved decision.

RUINED HIS LIFE FOR $1.

Bear's Elaborate Swindling Scheme Netted Him Only That Much.

Edward W. Rear, a well-dressed and evidenty intelligent young man, was sent to Raymond street jail yesterday for twenty-nine days for swindling John Blonquist out of $3.50. The prisoner showed much ingenuity in accomprisoner showed much ingenuity in accomplishing the job, which, however, netted him only $1. Blonquist recently advertised for a place as coachman. Reardrove up to Blonquist's house in a coach and offered to take the coachman to his country home on Long Island and install him there. Rear suggested that Blonquist should get a new hat, and stopping at a store went in to purchase one, leaving Blonquist in charge of the horses. Explaining that he could not get a check casted, he saked Blonquist for the money and got $3.50. He then returned to the store, but stepped off without buying the hat. In a few moments a boy came along and told the expectant coachman that he had made a blank fool of himself, and also where the coach belonged. It was found that Rear had paid $2.50 for the use of the coach, so that he came out of the transaction only $1. o that he came out of the transaction only $1 ahead.
"My life has been ruined for $1," was his reflection as he started for the jail.

Clubbed His Tormentor.

Paterson, Nov. 9.-James Marshall was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital this afternoon suffering and Thomas Shannon is confined in the Passaic and Thomas Shannon is confined in the Passaic county jail to await the result of Marshall's injuries. Both men are employed at the Passaic Rolling Mill, and Marshall, with a number of others, have done what they could to make life miserable for Shannon. This afternoon Marshall and Shannon met on the corner of Marshall and Shannon met on the corner of Marshall and Slater streets, and Shannon became so angered at the taunts of Marshall that he picked up a club and felled his tormentor with a heavy blow on the right temple. The ambulance conveyed Marshall to the hospital.

vestigated. The Board of Street and Water Commissioners of Jersey City has decided to engage an expert accountant to examine the accounts of the pert accountant to examine the accounts of the Water Department forten years back. It is expected that some startling developments will result from the investigation. It is generally believed that the Water Department ought to be self-sustaining from the receipts from water cents, but it has not been, and the Board pronoses to find out where the leak has been. The Democrats have been in control during six years of the time and the Republicans four.

SEWALL LIBRARY SALE.

SOME RABE BARGAINS FOR THE

Prized Editions of Boccaccio and Braith. watte Sold Testerday-Bryan's "Dic-tionary of Painters and Engravers" Brings the Highest Price of the Day. The books disposed of at the second day's ssion of the Sewall library sale included several of the highest importance to collectors, notably the various editions of Boccaccio and some of the editions of Braithwaite.

Several extra illustrated books came under the hammer also at this session and sold for good prices, although the cost was not nearly realized. The extra illustrator enjoys his hobby and doubtless learns much in its pursuit, but he never gets his money back when his hobby is sold at auction. Mr. Sewall doubtless spent many dollars and much time over his extra illustrated copy of Bryan's "Dictionary of Painters and Engravers," which he had extended from two volumes to ten by the insertion of nearly two thousand extra portraits, views, and prints. This only fetched $390, probably not half what it cost. This was the highest price of the day's sale. MRS. FLEMING A WITNESS.

None of Her Money Is Going to Pay Step father Blies's Debts. Mary Alice Almont Livingston Fleming, re cently acquitted of poisoning her mother, Evelina M. Bliss, was examined before Justice Schuchman of the City Court, yesterday, in a further effort of John Q. Maynard to recover $375 for articles furnished for the rooms of her stepfather, Henry H. Bliss, at the Colonial Hotel. Mrs. Fleming wore black, and did not remove her vell during the examination. It had appeared that Bliss had advanced moneys at times to Mrs. Fleming, and as she, by reason of her mother's death, has come into about $82,000 from the estate of her father, Judge Robert Swift Livingston, it was boped to get at some of this money. This is part of the examination:

Hotel.

Q.—Did Mr. Bliss pay any money for you?

A.—Mr. Bliss did not to my knowledge lay out any moneys for my board. He did not lay out moneys for me in any way except that he expended small amounts for me on account of prior moneys which I had spent for himself and family.

moneys for me in any way except that he expended small amounts for me on account of prior moneys which I had spent for himself and family.

Q.—Have you given Mr. Bliss any moneys since 1895? A.—Since 1895 I have not given any moneys to Mr. Bliss except that my lawyer paid $100 to Mr. Bliss except that my lawyer paid $100 to Mr. Bliss which he, Bliss, paid for my board and room at the Colonial Hotel.

BQ.—Did Mr. Bliss not provide for your children? A.—Mr. Bliss did not provide for my children except that from time to time he did lay out moneys as I have stated.

She said she had lived at 121 Manhattan avenue before going to the Colonial Hotel. That was about two years ago.

Q.—Who was responsible for the expenses of that flat? A.—At my mother's request Mr. Bliss was responsible.

Q.—Did Mr. Bliss provide for you and your children? A.—He did during that vear.

Q.—Did he provide food? A.—Yes, but he ate most of it himself.

Q.—Did Mr. Bliss support you for ten years, as he has testified? A.—No, he did not. He did not support me for ten years, and when he says so he forcets that I spent all my money on him and his family.

Q.—Bliss took all your property at Toms River—he took your father's estate from you and spent it? A.—He did, Oh, yes, he did!

The examination went over to Nov. 20.

facturers, Insolvent. The Ross & Baker Company, manufacturers of suks, with a factory at Port Oram, N. J., and an office at 85 Grand street, this city, has become financially embarrassed, and Justice Lawrence yestermay appointed Edward J. Ross of Dover, N. J., who is President of the company, receiver of all the assets in this State on the application of Stern and Rushmore, representing Spielmann & Co. of this city, commission merchants, who handled the goods made by the company. Spielmann & Co. lad made large advances on the goods and there is due them $20,000 in excess of the value of the goods. The company owes $140,000 to others. Notes for $4,000 have gone to protest, $80,000 of bills payable will soon mature, and the company has no funds to meet its obligations or to pay wages of supployees, the latter amounting to $4,000. The assets are not sufficient to pay the debts.

Justice Smyth of the Supreme Court granted yesterday an order dissolving the Weber Plano Company, whose office was at 108 Fifth avenue and factory at Seventh avenue, corner of Seventeenth street, and made the temporary receiver. William Foster, permanent receiver. The company went into the hands of a receiver on Feb. 3 with liabilities of $364,806. receiver of all the assets in this State on the INQUIRY ABOUT WOMEN'S WAGES.

So Bellley Was Discharged-The Superla

tendent Says Ho Was Cured. Terence Reilley, a bricklayer of 478 Marcy avenue, Brooklyn, is in St. Catherine's Hospital with his left leg broken. He was found near the Stagg street police station Monday afternoon, and when he was taken to the hospital he said he had been turned out of the Eastern District Hospital on Sunday, where he had been under treatment for five weeks for the same injury. Reilley added that his leg was broken by jury. Reilley added that his leg was broken by a fall. Louis Wiegand, the superintendent of the Eastern District Hospital, last evening denied Reilley's story.

"When Heilley was brought here," Wiegand said, "he received the best treatment possible. After awhile he began to smoke in the ward, where there were other patients. He was told that the rules of the institution forbade smoking in a ward. He didn't seem to care and keptright on. When Reilley was ordered to stop he became abusive. Then it was decided to get rid of him. His leg had apparently knit, and he was able to walk around the ward with crutches. After leaving here he must have done something which broke the limb again."

JOHN H. ELSWORTH STRICKEN. Richmond's County Clerk Suffering from

Paralysts, John H. Elsworth, County Clerk of Richmond county, was stricken with paralysis at noon yes-terday. Mr. Elsworth had been about his office at Richmond, S. I., all the morning preparing for the meeting of the Board of Canvassers. In reply to inquiries he said he was feeling unusu reply to Inquiries he said he was feeling unusually well. He stood talking and joking with members of the Board of Supervisors and friends when his speech suddenly became untelligible. A minute later he fell over in the arms of one of the bystanders. Supervisor Feeny, who is a physician, arrived at that moment and rendered medical aid. Mr. Elsworth was taken to a nearby hotel, and late yesterday afternoon was reported slightly better. Mr. Elsworth is a wealthy oyster planter, and has just been rediscited to a second term as County Clerk. His brothers and himself are widely known in yachting circles.

The lows Goes to Sen for a Private Test. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10. The battle ship lows, the last of the big United States ironclads begun by the Cramps under former naval clads begun by the Gramps under former naval admini-trations, is so far completed as to be ready for a preliminary trial at sea, and she started from the shipyard for that purpose at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. The lowals what is known in naval sarchitecture as a sea-going battle ship, and differs from other battle ships, such as the Massachusetts, known as coast defenders, in that she will be capable of making long voyages at sea. The present trip will last about a week.

Game Season Opens in New Jersey. Quail and rabbits became legal game in New lersey yesterday. Before the sun's rays had nade the frost to disappear John Ackerman of made the frost to disappear sonn accerman or Avondale had bagged five plump cottontails. Rabbits are plenty and in the best condition, but quall are rather scarce. Sportamen are liable to arrest if found hunting upon ground that is "posted," and sanday shooting is strictly prohibited. Even the carrying of a gun through a field on Sunday is sufficient to cause arrest, and game constables are alert.

Joseph Mendello's Honeymoon Cut Short. Joseph Mendello, aged 21 years, got married n Brooklyn a couple of weeks ago and started off with his bride for Boston. Soon after his deon with his bride for Hoston. Soon after his de-parture it was found that he had swindled a furniture firm out of $130, and he was indicted for grand incomy. He was arrested in Boston yesterday, and will be brought back to Brooklyn Loddy.

ROOM FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN. Three Churches Offer It and Mrs. Susan Bryan Offers a Vacant Store.

Mayor Strong's appeal to the clergymen and trustees of the churches of the city to allow the Board of Education to use the Sunday school rooms under their control for school purposes for children for whom there is no room in pub-He schoolhouses brought out several responses resterday. William Lechwicke, a trustee of the Tremont Presbyterian Church, at 1743 Washington avenue, wrote to the Mayor offering the Sinday school room of that congregation. The Rev. M. A. Taylor, paster of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, in West Seventy-seventh street, offered his Sunday school room, which will seat 200. The Rev. James Reynolds, paster of St. Mary's P. E. Church, came forward with an offer of rooms in that church which will hold 500 children, and Mrs. Susan Bryan said that the Board of Education could have the use of the vacant store at 457 Fourth avenue. yesterday.
